

Michiel te Paske joins Generali Real Estate as Investor Relations & Capital Raising Director

- An investment professional with extensive expertise in real estate investing across Europe, Michiel te Paske will be pivotal in achieving the company's ambitions to grow third-party capital

Milan – Generali Real Estate S.p.A announces the appointment of Michiel te Paske as the new Investor Relations & Capital Raising Director.

Generali Real Estate has set the ambitious target to double the share of third-party capital in its assets under management in the next five years. In this context, Michiel te Paske's proven expertise will be instrumental in building and strengthening business relationships with institutional investors, with the goal to promote investment opportunities and raise capital from institutional clients.

In his newly created Investor Relations & Capital Raising Director role, Michiel directly reports to the Generali Real Estate CEO & GM, Aldo Mazzocco, and works closely with other Generali Real Estate and Generali Investments functions. He will be based in London.

Michiel te Paske is a seasoned investment professional with a significant experience in real estate investing. In his professional career, he covered leadership roles at Morgan Stanley Investment Management Ltd, where, as a Managing Director, he was the co-portfolio manager of the Morgan Stanley European Real Estate Securities Product and part of the Global Real Assets Investment Team. Prior to that, he worked at Limburg Institute of Financial Economics and Global Property Research. Michiel holds a masters degree in Economics from Maastricht University.
